The trunk line people began to realize their folly, and are now willing and anxious to adhere to a fair living rate." The Commonwealth very pertinently inquires: "If the four trunk lines can lose thirty million dollars in a few months by cut ting rates, and still declare dividends, what must be their earnings when they charge living rates?"

has been taken toward the desirable end of securing standard time throughout the country. The house committee, it is understood, will report favorably on the bill appropriating $25,000 to enable the secretary of the navy to send to maritime cities and the larger inland towns the standard Washington time every day at nose. It may not be that such a thing as an international standard of time can ever be established, so that people all over the world can be exactly punctual, and this would hardly be desirable; but there is much to be said in favor of widespread correctness in time for ourselves. The country might be well divided into zones of an hour each. One of the most conspicuous practical advantages would be seen in the more exact running of railway trains. Con necticut has a standard time, and re quires all railroads to use it. The results are said to be most satisfactory.
